

As with so many things in our lives, the screens at our disposal come with choices around how we use them — or don't use them. Those choices impact us ... and they can also impact others. What would it look like to connect — or disconnect — with the screen in ways that allow us to foster genuine, healthy connection, and build into the real lives of real people?

- Open with prayer.
- If your groups is new, give everyone time to introduce themselves.
